

Super Prostate Health

All-natural prostate formula

Did you know that an enlarged prostate is the result of normal hormonal changes associated with aging that can begin in men as early as age 40? Symptoms of an enlarged prostate can be frequent urination, decreased strength of the urine stream, a feeling that the bladder is not completely empty, and an urge to urinate soon after urination. When the early signs are ignored, symptoms can become more severe and include pain during urination, loss of urinary control and blood in the urine.

These symptoms should not be ignored, but are often thought to be either not serious enough to seek treatment or too embarrassing to talk about. Typically, men have trouble sharing personal health issues with their friends or even their partner. But this can be dangerous. An enlarged prostate when untreated can cause many problems such as bladder infections, bladder stones, urinary tract infections and kidney trouble. Having this problem does not mean you have prostate cancer and it does not cause prostate cancer. However, with this problem you can still develop cancer. Many doctors will prescribe drugs to treat an enlarged prostate. But many men are not happy with the side effects of these medications that can include dizziness, decreased libido and even impotence. Many physicians recommend natural therapies before prescribing medication.

Res-Q Super Prostate Health contains natural ingredients such as saw palmetto berry extract, green tea leaf extract, beta-sitosterol complex, vitamins A & E, Zinc and Selenium that have been proven to help support prostate health.

Res-Q Super Prostate Health is a great natural option that can be taken when you have prostate issues or to help maintain good prostate health before the symptoms begin.
